FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Haskell Foundation welcomes new administrative assistant

Lawrence, Kan. – The Haskell Foundation is pleased to announce that Brittany Hall has joined the organization as administrative assistant.

Hall provides key support services for the foundation’s efforts to financially promote Haskell Indian Nations University, an institution of higher learning for members of federally recognized Native American tribes in the U.S.

She earned a bachelor’s degree in indigenous American Indian studies from Haskell Indian Nations University, and a master’s degree in business administration from Baker University in Topeka. Hall serves as vice president and treasurer of the university’s alumni association.

As an independent, 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, Haskell Foundation provides means for other organizations, tribal communities, foundations, agencies and individuals to contribute monetary support to Haskell Indian Nations University.
